YOUTH RED CROSS

On International Day for People with Disabilities, the Youth Red Cross members from the Department of Psychology organized a one-day workshop at a learning center for mentally disabled children. The goal was to celebrate their abilities and create a joyful, engaging experience for them. The workshop included Clay Making, Sand Writing, Role Playing etc. The day was filled with smiles, laughter, and meaningful interactions. It was a heartwarming experience for both the children and the YRC members.

YOUTH RED CROSS

Owing to the cold weather the Youth Red Cross volunteers from the Department of Mathematics decided to take a meaningful step to assist the underprivileged during the winter season. On December 23rd they distributed blankets to those in need, including homeless individuals and families living in harsh conditions. This thoughtful act of kindness brought much-needed relief to those battling with the cold weather, thus reflecting the YRC's commitment to serve the community and supporting those in need.

YOUTH RED CROSS

On 24th December 2024, The Youth Red Cross volunteers from the Department of Zoology brought joy and festive cheer to the children of Megha Foundation Saranalaya, a Children's Home in Thandalam, Kovur, by celebrating Christmas with them. The event included the serving of a delicious lunch for 50 children, along with cakes and thoughtful Christmas gifts. The volunteers spent quality time with the children, engaging in fulfilled activities and spreading happiness through games and entertainment. The celebration created a warm and memorable experience, embodying the true spirit of Christmas—sharing, caring, and spreading joy.

Status of Women in Indian Society

JBAS NCC COY organized its 1st Thalir event, "Status of Women in Indian Society," on December 6, 2024, at Fathima Basheer Matriculation Higher Secondary School, Teynampet. The event featured a thought-provoking ramp walk titled "யாக்ஷேனி," highlighting women's access to justice and legal aid.

Access to Justice and Legal aid

On December 16, 2024, JBAS NCC COY conducted a skit, "Satyagraha," at Nalla Sangam, K.K. Nagar, raising awareness about legal laws and their impact.

Climate change Mitigation

JBAS NCC COY addressed the pressing issue of climate change mitigation by hosting an exhibition on December 24, 2024, at 1445 hours in the college premises. The exhibition, titled "CLIMASPARO," effectively explained the reasons behind climate change, sparking meaningful conversations and awareness.

NATIONAL CADET CORPS

JBAS NCC organized an impactful awareness program titled 'Yagaseni' on December 6, 2024, to shed light on the status of women in Indian society under THALIR CADOFIESTA (2024-2025). The program featured a unique ramp walk where students creatively depicted the challenges faced by women and celebrated their resilience and achievements. The event aimed to inspire young minds to advocate for gender equality and contribute to a more inclusive society. With engaging performances and thought-provoking themes, 'Yagaseni' left a lasting impression on all attendees, emphasizing the importance of empowering women and challenging societal stereotypes.

NATIONAL CADET CORPS

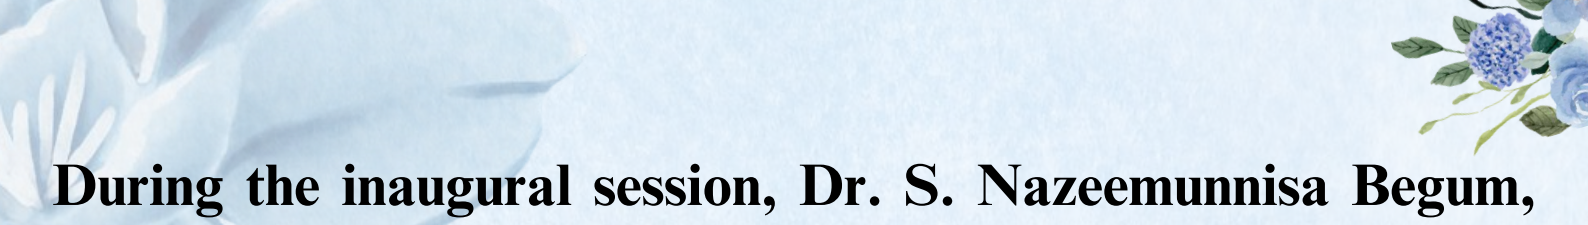

On December 24, 2024, JBAS NCC successfully organized an awareness program focusing on the critical issue of climate change. The event was titled "Climaspero," symbolizing hope and awareness about the climate crisis.

The program featured a well-structured exhibition where NCC cadets presented various projects and conducted live demonstrations related to the topic. These initiatives highlighted the impact of climate change, potential solutions, and actionable steps to mitigate its effects. The exhibition provided an engaging platform for attendees to gain insights into climate-related challenges, innovative ideas for sustainability, and the importance of environmental responsibility.

Conducted entirely in English, the event aimed to educate and inspire the audience while fostering awareness and dialogue around global climate concerns. "Climaspero" stood as a testament to the cadets' dedication and creativity in addressing one of the most pressing issues of our time.

During the inaugural session, Dr. S. Nazeemunnisa Begum, Head of the Department of History, delivered the welcome address, emphasizing the importance of integrating historical knowledge with tourism strategies to ensure that heritage is accessible to all. In her address, she highlighted the potential for tourism to play a key role in promoting the understanding and appreciation of history by diverse audiences. Dr. Amthul Azeez, the esteemed Principal and Correspondent, followed with the presidential address, where she underscored the importance of interdisciplinary collaboration between history and tourism in promoting inclusivity, with the goal of making history and heritage more accessible to everyone, regardless of their background or abilities.

Next, Dr. Mallika Begum, Associate Professor in the Department of History, took the floor to present the dynamics of the seminar. She discussed how historical sites and narratives can be made accessible to a wide range of audiences, including people with disabilities, marginalized communities, and international visitors from diverse cultural backgrounds.

The bottom corners of the page feature decorative floral elements. The bottom-left corner has a cluster of blue flowers with green leaves. The bottom-right corner has a large, light blue flower.

She emphasized the importance of creating inclusive spaces that allow everyone to engage with and experience history in meaningful ways. Through her insightful remarks, Dr. Mallika Begum encouraged a more holistic approach to the preservation of historical sites and the development of tourism, one that prioritizes equitable access and fosters a deeper, more inclusive understanding of history.

The inaugural address was then delivered by Mr. S. Arul Kumar, IPS, DIG, Central Reserve Police Force, Chennai, who spoke about the vital role of inclusive tourism in fostering national unity. He emphasized that making cultural heritage accessible to a wide variety of people, including those with physical or economic challenges, is key to promoting a more cohesive and inclusive society. Mr. Kumar stressed that tourism, when made inclusive, can serve as a powerful tool in bridging societal divides and fostering greater understanding among diverse groups.

The session concluded with a vote of thanks delivered by Dr. M. Deepa, who expressed her gratitude to all those involved in organizing the seminar and acknowledged their contributions to making the event a success.

Technical Session I: The first technical session, titled "Rediscovering History in South India," was presented by Dr. P. Sivadasan, Senior Professor, Department of History, University of Calicut. Dr. Sivadasan explored the untapped potential of historical tourism in South India, focusing on innovative strategies to enhance accessibility and security. He highlighted the use of digital platforms and regional heritage initiatives as tools for inclusivity, referencing successful case studies from the region. The session prompted vibrant discussions on overcoming physical and cultural barriers in historical tourism.

Paper Presentations (Session I): The first paper presentation session featured insightful papers on using technology and inclusive practices to improve accessibility at historical sites. Topics ranged from virtual tours to community-driven tourism initiatives. The lively discussions provided valuable insights into addressing existing challenges and fostering collaboration. The session was chaired by the resource persons, who selected the top three papers, awarding certificates to the presenters.

Technical Session II: The second technical session, led by Dr. Priyakrushna Mohanty, Assistant Professor, Department of Business & Management, Christ University, Bengaluru, was titled "Technology, Economic Impact, and Sustainability." Dr. Mohanty emphasized the transformative role of technology in inclusive tourism, showcasing innovations such as virtual reality tours and AI-driven services. He also discussed the economic benefits of sustainable tourism practices, particularly the role of local communities in ensuring long-term success.

Valedictory Session: The valedictory session concluded the seminar, featuring Mr. Sundar Singaram, Director of Operations, South India Hotels and Restaurants Association, and Dr. Firdous Jahan, Vice Principal of Justice Basheer Ahmed Sayeed College for Women.

Report of the Seminar: The report of the seminar was presented by Dr. Asfiya Banu, Assistant Professor, Department of Tourism & Travel Management. She eloquently summarized the key outcomes and discussions, highlighting the significant themes explored during the sessions, including the role of technology, sustainable practices, and the importance of community engagement in promoting inclusive tourism.

The valedictory address was delivered by Mr. Sundar Singaram, Director of Operations, South India Hotels and Restaurants Association. He emphasized the critical role of the hospitality sector in driving inclusive tourism and shared valuable insights into integrating accessibility initiatives within the tourism industry, particularly through partnerships between historical sites and hospitality providers. His address highlighted the need for innovative strategies that balance inclusivity with sustainability.

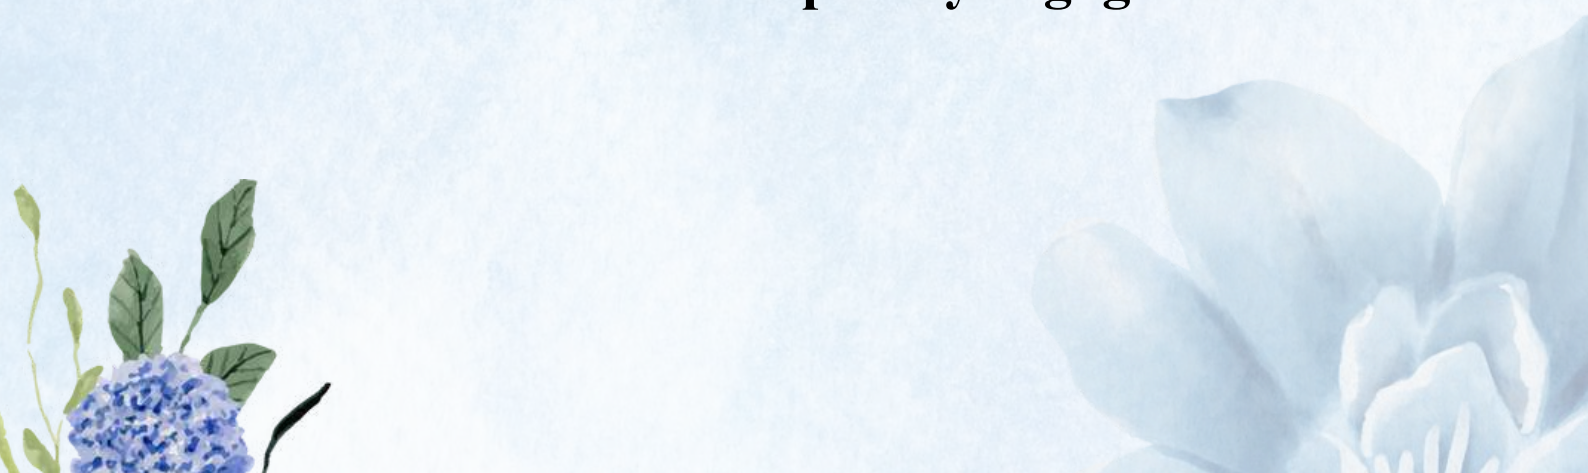

The session concluded with a heartfelt vote of thanks delivered by Dr. Sumithra, Guest Lecturer, Department of Tourism & Travel Management. She expressed her gratitude to the esteemed guests, speakers, organizing committee, faculty, and students for their contributions and efforts in making the seminar a grand success.

At the end of the seminar, certificates were awarded to the Best Paper presenters by the chief guest, Mr. Sundar Singaram. The event concluded with the National Anthem, performed by students, symbolizing unity and respect for the nation.

The seminar successfully achieved its objective of fostering academic discussions on inclusive tourism and its role in making history accessible to all. It emphasized the need for collaboration between academia, industry, and policymakers to drive sustainable and inclusive tourism initiatives, setting a benchmark for future interdisciplinary engagement.

Outcomes and Recommendations:

- Improve accessibility at historical sites through better infrastructure, transport services, and digital tools.
- Foster greater collaboration between historians, tourism professionals, and tech experts.
- Utilize technologies like virtual reality to enhance accessibility to history.
- We Engage local communities in inclusive tourism planning for equitable growth.
- Adopt inclusive and sustainable tourism practices.

The seminar successfully promoted inclusive tourism as a means to make history accessible, setting the stage for further research and initiatives in the field. Thank you for your attention to the seminar report.

THANKS GIVING DINNER

Under the big brown boughs
That look like they could break anytime,
Upon the carpet of orange leaves
That almost resembled a red-carpet,
"Happy thanksgiving" the greetings were exchanged.
But that particular day,
They could think of thousand things
That they were NOT thankful for.

In a little town hued with red and orange,
He sat across his thanksgiving dinner,
Barely a dinner,
Barely anything on the table.
Not even enough to feed them all.
What's a thanksgiving dinner without a turkey?
His broken heart cried,
The roof above his head cried with him
And he once again remembered,
The poor condition of the house that they lived in.

But his eyes looked up the table
And the faces across the few meals away,
Put a faint smile on his dreary heart.
He heard within himself a little voice,
Of all the people he was grateful for.
The people, the care and the love
And for that he prayed, "Thank you God"
He knew, there was never enough for them all
But for them all, his smile was enough
And so he grinned,
His face twinkling in his hope.

In another side of town,
She sat across her table.
At the sight of a mini fare,
An immediate grin across her face
Table spread with food of every kind.
The classic Turkey, green bean casserole
Her favourite sweet potatoes and more.
But her eyes didn't fail to capture
The missing seats across the table.
Her eyes made their way
To the colossal portrait that hung,
Magnificently across the hall.

She heard her heart crack clearly
As she sat solem in the silent space
Her parents were very much alive, Thank you.
But they weren't there.
That only deepened her scar further.
Her mother was out on some business
And her father wasn't around much.
And the others, she didn't know
If they would even care.
As her eyes moistened, she heard someone.
A little voice reminded her,
Of all the things to be grateful for.
The house, the food and everything else
For those she prayed, "Thank you God"
And enjoyed her dinner staying strong.

A Thanksgiving Poem
By a Grateful Heart

The leaves fall gently from the trees,
Crisp autumn air, a chilly breeze.
The table's set with care and grace,
Smiles and laughter fill the space.

I'm thankful for the little things,
Like morning light and birds that sing.
For family near and friends so dear,
For all the love that draws us near.

I'm grateful for the food we share,
For stories told and hearts that care.
For lessons learned from days gone by,
For dreams that soar and hopes that fly.

Though seasons change and time moves fast,
These moments stay, they always last.
So on this day, I give my part,
A thankful prayer from my heart.

Happy Thanksgiving, near and far,
Be grateful for just who you are.
